Warehousing

Warehousing refers to the physical flow of products during receiving and shipping as well as the data associated with this flow, such as fulfilment times or product information. A product being received at the warehouse has to be stored in the put-away bay and transferred to a storage location once one is allocated.

Time Critical Service

Time-critical shipping services are guaranteed, urgent services and come with different unique options. This makes them ideal for the kind of shipments that require special handling and care. Time critical or expedited services provide the kind of solutions that you require to solve time-sensitive challenges

D.G. Handling

It is both illegal and dangerous to take short cuts with safety regulations. Proper care in the initial handling of Dangerous Goods can prevent accidents arising at a later stage.

Naked lights and smoking should be prohibited in or near a Dangerous Goods handling area at all times.

If possible, Dangerous Goods should be handled and stowed during daylight hours; if not, adequate lighting must be provided during the operation.

Express Cargo Booking

Air line will accept cargo for carriage, only if it is in "Ready for Carriage" status. i.e. Properly Packed, Marked, Labelled and Properly documented with correct weight of the entire shipment.

The item should be packed to withstand normal air transportation. The package should not deteriorate or damage other goods and the packaging material should not cause damage to any equipment or the personal who are required to handle the goods.
